

Gayle Y. Fisher, M.Ed., Ed.Tech.

Improving the World of Learning Differences

- ◆ Educator & Mom
- ◆ Contemporary Author & Speaker
- ◆ Learning Differences Consultant
- ◆ Compelling Collaborator & Group Facilitator
- ◆ Workshop Developer
- ◆ Advocate of Special Needs & Learning Differences

Learning Projects & Teams

- ◆ Special Needs Sibs – Founding Co-Facilitator
- ◆ Our Training Center – Founding Co-Facilitator
- ◆ Getting Sorted – Founder
- ◆ If We Learn Differently – Founder
- ◆ Apendemos Diferente – Founding Co-Facilitator

Education | Experience

- ◆ Intervention Workshops for Families, Caregivers & Professionals
- ◆ Two non-profit companies supporting Neurodiversity: Siblings & Workplace Readiness
- ◆ Seventeen (17) years in oil/gas/petrochemical, construction, and independent consulting
- ◆ Studied Educational Technology, Finance, and Pre-Engineering (respective majors) at Texas A&M, University of Houston, Houston Community College
- ◆ Former Client Services Specialist at enCodePlus
- ◆ Former Certified UNT-WISE (DARS) CRP-Director and Job Skills Trainer/Job Coach

Bio:

Gayle is a mom of learning differences, educator, author, ally, former corporate warrior, and learning differences consultant/advocate. Understanding what to do to help your children with learning differences prepare for life, add joy, and reduce shame & fear is only part of the passion Gayle imparts to her audiences whether it's one on one consulting or in groups small and large.

Gayle has a master's degree in Education, Educational Technology from Texas A&M. She lives with her younger son in The Woodlands, Texas. Her older child attends college in Oregon. Gayle's curiosity and passion for advocating for those with learning differences, and on behalf of her son, keeps her work and contributions relevant.

Read more about Gayle and her teams along with the projects they're involved with GettingSorted.com.